

CALENDAR OF EVENTS 2017

Sports Venue Technology Summit @ ISE 2017	9 February	RAI, Amsterdam, The Netherlands ALL SPONSORS	Now an established part of the SVG Europe calendar, the Sports Venue Technology Summit will examine digital signage, VR and new content production innovations at its 2017 edition. The programme will again be prepared in conjunction with eminent consultant Roland Hemming.
DACH Summit	21 March	Allianz Arena, Munich, Germany PLATINUM/DACH ONLY	The 2015 SVG Europe DACH Summit was a huge success, bringing together broadcasters, consultants, service providers and other stakeholders to discuss the present and future of sports broadcasting in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. Now returning for its second event, the 2017 DACH Summit will take place in Munich on the eve of the Football Production Summit.
Football Production Summit 2017	22 March	Allianz Arena, Munich, Germany ALL SPONSORS	Football remains a major driver of sports broadcast technology innovation throughout Europe. Visiting Munich for the first time, the Football Production Summit will again provide broadcasters, OB providers, federations, leagues and clubs with an opportunity to find out more about the production technologies and workflow developments set to impact upon this most dynamic of sports.
Chairman's Forum	21 April	Las Vegas, USA PLATINUM ONLY	Scheduled ahead of the NAB 2016 Show, the Chairman's Forum offers a unique Platinum sponsor-only conference, networking and golf event that provides an ideal entry point to a productive week on the showfloor.
Pre-Game Party at NAB	23 April	Las Vegas, USA ALL SPONSORS	The Pre-Game Party provides a special opportunity to network with colleagues from across the globe over cocktails and nibbles before the NAB exhibition gets underway the following day.
SportTech Europe 2017	7 June	Emirates Stadium, London, UK ALL SPONSORS	After its debut visit to Dublin in 2016, SportTech Europe returns to London for its 2017 event. Delegates should anticipate a characteristic blend of sessions examining emerging technologies such as VR and HDR, as well as tantalising previews of some of the summer's major sports events and the production workflows set to deliver them.
Sport Production Summit 2017	14 September	Amsterdam, The Netherlands ALL SPONSORS	Sport Production Summit has become SVG's flagship European event, providing insights and reflections on host broadcast and unilateral first-screen and second-screen case studies from the summer's major sports events. As ever, the summit is scheduled to precede Europe's premier broadcast exhibition, IBC.
Sport Production Awards 2017	16 September	IBC, Amsterdam, The Netherlands ALL SPONSORS	In the wake of the best-attended Sport Production Awards to date, SVG Europe will honour more key examples of outstanding production and technical achievements in the field of broadcast sports. The event also serves as a welcome social 'break' during the reliably frenetic week of the IBC conference and exhibition.
Nordic Summit	1 November	Norway PLATINUM/NORDIC ONLY	The new Media City Bergen complex is expected to provide the host venue for SVG Europe's first full Nordic Summit. A diverse range of presentations and panel sessions will examine the current challenges and opportunities to be encountered in this fast-moving market.
Audio Summit	November	London, UK ALL SPONSORS	Following an inaugural edition last November at Dolby's Soho Square facility in central London, SVG Europe will return to audio-over-IP, immersive and personalised audio, and other technologies currently shaping the future of broadcast sound for sports.
FutureSport 2017	29 November	Kia Oval, London, UK ALL SPONSORS	FutureSport has emerged as SVG Europe's premier future-facing event, looking ahead to the emerging technologies that are beginning to be adopted by the sports broadcast production community – or are still just a little way off. Expect analysis and discussion of topics such as 4K, HDR, IP, OTT, VR... and other popular acronyms!
